Annual Meeting Well Attended

Coleman annual ratepayers' meeting, attended by 30 persons, heard Chairman of Finance Ted Kryczka report that the town had enjoyed a good year, completing the town business with a surplus of over $4,000.

Fire Chief Henry Zak also reported his department has had a successful year with only nine fires being attended, four of which were in the Improvement District. Total fire loss for the year was $4640. He advised the brigade has revived the annual hose coupling competitions and that poster and essay contests are being conducted during Fire Prevention Week. He advised that inspections were being regularly conducted in the schools and that inspections had been made at Phillips Cable Plant and also at the gas plant.

The Public Works Department, reported by Fred MacLeod, in the absence of J. Jenkins, showed that this department had stayed within its budget, and that a new grader had been purchased by the department, which was a great asset to the town.

Chairman of Police, Mel Cornett reported that the town had a minimum expenditure in the department, as the town had been policed free by the RCMP.

A provincial contract has been arranged whereby RCMP police the town now at no cost. The town is still entitled to certain fines. The only duties the RCMP does not attend to are dog and animal problems.

Victor Kryzwy, chairman of Health and Welfare, reported that due to little unemployment in the area this department has not been busy.

Councillor Fred MacLeod reported that the sewer system is now complete and the total debt cost is $280,000. Mr. MacLeod predicted a ten-million increase in tax to cover the cost of the debt.

Chairman of Parks and Cemeteries, John Binda, advised that some work had been done in these areas and more was being planned for the coming year.

Mayor John Hoky reported that the gas company, owned by the town, had enjoyed a successful year with a good surplus being realized. He outlined the financial statement prepared for this utility.

Chairman of the Light and Water Company, Mel Cornett, advised that this utility had also had a good year, showing a surplus of $5,000. He stated the new pump-house being built for the water system, is nearing completion and should be in operation by spring.

Secretary - treasurer Dick Jensen reported that an increase in delinquent taxes was evident. He forecast the need for an increase in the millrate.

John Salus of the School Board, reported that a school division has been formed in the Crows Nest Pass and that a new school will be contracted for on a site to be chosen by the division.

He advised that Coleman and Blairmore each had two sites, and Frank and Hiltcrest each had one site. Mr. Salus advised Grant Hall had been appointed chairman of the board and that Mrs. Nora Goulding, Mrs. Lorraine Alelio and himself would serve three, two and one years respectively on the board. Grant Hall and John Lloyd of Blairmore, will serve three and two year periods and Veno Pozzi of Hiltcrest and Joe Krywolt of Frank will serve three and one year periods on the board.

He advised that a grievance and negotiations committee was formed comprising Nora Goulding, John Lloyd and Joe Krywolt. Stu Murdoch, a member of the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital Board presented a detailed report of the hospital's functions during the past year. He stated the board was attempting to get a new 55-bed hospital for the Crows Nest Pass which would greatly benefit the area.

Ted Kryczka reported on the Sports Association, and stated a good year had been experienced. The high cost of operation he attributed to a break-down in the

Credit Union Shows Good Year

Coleman Savings and Credit Union at its fourth annual meeting reported that another very successful year had been enjoyed.

Reports indicated that loans during the year totalled $107,994.02, and that total shares in 1966 were $175,247.31.

On the recommendation of the executive the meeting approved that a four and three-quarter per cent dividend be paid on shares, and that a 15 per cent patronage dividend be paid.

An election of officers was held and added to the present slate were Ted Michalski and Mrs. Helen Kropinik.

Prior to the meeting a banquet attended by over 200 persons was held after which an evening of dancing completed the annual event.

Aif Pitt Elected Riding Club Prexy

Aif Pitt was elected president to head the Crows Nest Pass Riding Club at a recent meeting attended by a large number of interested persons.

To aid Mr. Pitt in his duties the following officers were also elected:

Vice-president, Mrs. Marguerite Fraser; secretary-treasurer, Laura Trotz; arena directors, Joe and Bill Trotz; maintenance, David Dvoux; timer, Bob Cotton, and recorder, Linda Zar.

The club will form a mounted escort and parade for the visit of the Centennial caravan to Coleman on May 11. Persons wishing to participate in this event should contact the president, secretary or Mrs. Amy Wright.

Pony-a-ride also being made by the Riding Club to participate in a Centennial Cross-Canada Pony Express Ride.

Fish and Game Association Annual Trophy Night

Coleman Fish and Game Association, at its annual trophy night March 4th, heard Bill Hamilton, Fish Committee Chairman of the Alberta Fish and Game Association, indicate that this Crows Nest Pass area is the most heavily concentrated stocked area in the province.

He said that in 25 areas in the Pincher Creek district the Department of Lands and Forests had planted well over one million rainbow trout fingerlings and yearlings. He commended the Coleman Fish and Game unit for its work in building dams and potholes areas for fish plantings and assured the club that as soon as any prepared area was ready for stocking the department would cooperate. He guaranteed that this area would get its share of fish.

Al Longworth of the Blairmore Forest Service offices, commended the Coleman Association for its initiative, stating that this group did not always have its hand out to the government asking for something - but took the bull by the horns themselves and pitched in and did much useful work that was recognized by the department when the Association did ask for something.

William Bowthorpe, operator of the only Wildlife Refuge in Alberta at Roundhill, south east of Edmonton, showed many colored slides of the birds on his refuge and provided an interesting commentary on the pictures he showed. Charles Price of Pincher Creek showed some interesting 8mm motion on wildlife he had taken in the Waterton Park surrounding area. Presentation of awards was then made by Jim Kerr to the winners of the different big game events.

Winners were: Moose, Bob Williams of Blairmore and Mary Vyschold of Bellevue; Elk, Jim Atkinson of Coleman; Mule deer, Melvin Plisoy of Lundbreck; and Allan Phillips of Coleman.

White-tail deer, Miller Fleming and Jack Kerr, both of Coleman; Antelope, Orazio Celli of Coleman and Melvin Plisoy of Lundbreck; Sheep, Ted Michalski and Jerry Fisher, both of Coleman; and Grizzly bear, Jim Kerr, Coleman.

Winners of the fish trophies were Henry T. Berghien of Coleman, who took both the rainbow and cut-throat events, and Harry Sebba, also of Coleman, who won the Dolly Varden event.

Mrs. Nora Goulding was presented with a trophy for having topped last year's fisherman.

To conclude the event a buffet supper was served to the 60 in attendance. Winner of the draw for the set of dishes was Miss M. Plante of Coleman.

Officials to Visit C. N. P. Hospital

The Board of the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital, at its meeting last week, learned that J. D. Campbell, executive director of the Hospitals Division, Department of Public Health, and the Hon. J. Donovan Ross, Minister of Health, will be visiting the Pass in early March.

Purpose of the Edmonton officials' visit to the area is to visit the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital and review the entire hospital problem. The board had last fall called for tenders to have some additions and renovations made in the present 80-bed hospital building, but such a fabulous price was asked that the board felt that it would possibly be more feasible to consider a new hospital.

Premier Ernest Manning, on his visit to the Crows Nest Pass last October, was taken on a tour of the hospital and expressed surprise at the antiquity of the building. He advised that officials of the Department of Health would visit the Pass to review the situation.

The board completed negotiations on the nurses' salary agreement as per the Alberta Hospitals Association recommendation which provides for a basic salary of $380 per month to a maximum of $450 per month, after five years' service.

Union negotiations for other hospital employees are still underway and unsettled as yet.

Reports presented indicated the hospital is operating at 90 per cent occupancy. Admissions during last year totalled 1508 and births at the hospital stood at 65.

Athletic Assn. Extends Thanks

The Coleman Athletic Association takes this opportunity to say "Thank You" to all those who helped in making their presentation night such a success.

We, and the players say a big "Thank You" to our uniform donors.

The winner of the $50.00 draw was Barry Zak, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Zak of Coleman.

We also wish to "Thank" Mr. Graham Atkinson for the delicious donuts.

"Family Night" Proves Successful

Family Night in the Coleman arena was well attended, and after a welcome was extended to all by Peter Walker, president of the Athletic Association, events got underway.

The first hockey game between the Blairmore Bantams and the Coleman Bantams started after Fire Chief Henry Zak dropped a puck for the first event.

At the end of the game three complete sets of uniforms provided by the Coleman Elks Lodge, the Coleman Volunteer Fire Brigade and the Bohomolec ranch were presented to the Coleman minor teams.

The Bohomolec uniforms were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Andre Bohomolec, assisted by Stan Berry, while the Elks and Firefighters' uniforms were presented by members of both groups.

For the latter presentations members of the lodge and brigade formed a straight line on the ice and each of the team members lined up in front of the donors, who then made the presentations.

Short addresses were then made by Fire Chief Zak, Exalted Ruler of the Elks Mel Cornett and Mr. Bohomolec.

The second game of the evening then got underway between the Coleman Elks Pees and the Bohomolec Spurs after Exalted Ruler Cornett and Mr. Bohomolec tossed in the first puck.

Coaches John Hopkins, Mel Taje and Steve Perozak and their teams expressed thanks earlier in the program. Draw for the $50.00 cash or tailor-made suit was made with the winner being Barry Zak of Coleman. Draw was made by Mrs. C. Bohomolec.

Employment by the seven General Motors companies in Canada now exceeds 30,000 people.

LSD At Greenhorn Farm

No, we don't have the drug, but we do have the experience!

Like most men, I have always wanted a glow around my life; a shine and lift and a sparkle. I want the violins to play sweeter, and reach higher notes. When I hear a talented singer who is too legit, I yearn to hear her let go with all her heart and reach far out—like the Beatles, but with talent. I do not think men should lead lives of quiet desperation, tied to some boring treadmill: the squirrels ramping happily in my woodlot are wiser than they.

I believe it has been this deep yearning by all men for some glow of beauty in their lives that leads to drug experimentation. LSD users take the stuff to "get out of this world", to leave their hum - drum carcasses and have a fake spiritual experience.

Well, we want none of that at Greenhorn Farm—but we have LSD.

This afternoon, when I had spent an hour with hatchet, pick and shovel, I strolled to the flat rock beside our back creek for my LSD - Long Sit Down. Talk about a psychedelic experience! I was pleasantly tired, physically, and all my senses were alert.

The Creek sang its best song, tied to no known scale, and the sun had come out briefly to glaze the branches of the huge cypress trees overhanging the creek. Smoke from my Sweet Bringham drifted fragrant and blue in the clear air, and the birds sang all-out, the way good singers should. Ah, why get out of this world when you can get into it deep—feel it, breathe it, real and sweet and honest?

Anyone tempted to fool with LSD ought to try a Long Sit Down instead.

Preferably, find a sweet-voiced creek lined with sun-glazed cypress trees, where birds are singing; but failing that, a bench in any city park should do, or even a long look through your office window at the surrounding sky, or even the murky rooftops of other buildings. Remember all that stuff you learned as a youth about infinity in a grain of sand - about the Kingdom within you - well, by golly, all that stuff was true! No need at all to get out of this world. Get into it, deeply, and while it might not be quite as dreamy as dope, it's a darn sight more substantial.

The Great Vineyards Of Niagara

(David L. Wrightson)

From studies of the "soil map of the world" it has been discovered that there are over 20 variations of soil type in which vineyards may be successfully grown. No less than six of these are found in the Niagara fruit-growing area, a region that extends from Hamilton on the west to the Niagara River on the east - approximately 50 miles. It varies from 3 to 7 miles in width, with Lake Ontario on the north and the Niagara escarpment on the south. Geologists tell us that this escarpment once formed the southern shore of the glacial Lake Iroquois.

In 1906 the Ontario Department of Agriculture established the Horticultural Experimental Station at Vineland. In the 60 years since, grape growers of the Peninsula and Canadian wineries have benefitted greatly from the technical and viticultural advances made by the station.

For many years the standard native grape varieties, Concord and Niagara, were used exclusively by the commercial wine growers. These multi-purpose grapes yielded reasonably palatable wine. But in 1934 the largest of the Canadian wineries, Brights Wines of Niagara Falls, instituted a program of vineyard research that resulted in the introduction of new wine grapes to the Niagara peninsula, never before grown there in commercial quantities. New varieties like the Agawam, Elvira, Dutchess, Lomanto, Delaware, President and Westfield were thus introduced and acclimatized.

Ten years later the same winery gambled hundreds of thousands of dollars on these new grapes:

450 acres of standard grapes were rooted up to make room for the newcomers, among which were some 25 French hybrids. The seeming rashness of this step can be appreciated when one realizes that these vineyards were in the very prime of life with an annual income yield of approximately $70,000 and a capital value of a quarter of a million dollars.

The gamble was enormously successful. From these new grapes came fine Canadian wines that are equal to or better than the great majority of wines imported from any country in the world.

Any wine is only as good as the grape from which it is made; many of the grapes growing in Ontario today are world famous. Imported to this country as seedlings; nursed, babied and cultured in the experimental plots of Niagara; proven in the fertile clay of the peninsula, these renowned aristocrats of the wine world now flourish in commercial quantities in Canadian vineyards. The Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Merlot, Pich, and many varieties of the Setbel - to name but a few - make our vineyards rank with the great vineyards of the world.

The soil and sun of Niagara, the determination of provincial agricultural experts and the vision of Ontario wineries have resulted in wines that, deservedly rank with the great "wines of the country" being grown today.

"Pioneers of Progress", a stage presentation by General Motors, which informs young Canadians of the opportunities and challenges in a science career is on the road most of each year playing to high school audiences. In 1964 "Pioneers" was presented to approximately 150,000 students.

Jehovah's Witnesses Three Day Convention

The presiding minister of the Coleman congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, Mr. John Jones, announced last night that all members of the local congregation and friends have been invited to attend a three-day convention in Fort Macleod Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 10, 11 and 12.

According to Mr. Jones, spokesman for the group, "This program is designed to give those attending a fuller part in the Christian experience by providing advanced training in the ministry."

Mr. Jones explained, "The program is really an extension of and a refresher for the regular training program conducted in all congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses. One of the requirements for every Christian that is set forth in the Bible, is that he 'Endures in the Ministry.' For that reason the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, sponsors for the three-day refresher course, have set the theme of the assembly as 'Supply To Your Faith . . . Endurance'."

All the features of the regular training program will be covered at the Fort Macleod assembly. Mr. Jones said, "However, these meetings will be under the direction of Mr. Jack MacPherson, a special representative of the Society sent out from Toronto."

Of special interest to the public will be the free one and a half hour color film "God Cannot Lie". According to Mr. Jones this film was taken on actual location in Palestine and presents outstanding scenes of Biblical interest, which very concisely tells the story of the Bible from Genesis through Revelation.

The film showing will be at 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 12th in the Fort Macleod high school.

Everyone is welcome — all the meetings are free — no collection will be taken.

Cancer Immunology Advanced By Montreal Scientists

Immunology, as a weapon in dealing with cancer, is getting help from investigations by the Institute of Microbiology of the University of Montreal into the well known vaccine, BCG. The promising part of immunology as a science is that it uses the body's own disease-fighting mechanisms.

Dr. Armand Frappier, Director of the Institute, and his colleague, Dr. Paul Lemonde, have been working with newly born hamsters which they inoculate with BCG. Later they "transplant" by injection into the animal tumor cells which have been started in other animals from polyoma, a cancer-producing virus. It was found that in hamsters treated with BCG, the development of tumors was retarded, the survival rate was longer and metastasis, or the spread of cancer, was decreased.

Of all cancer treatment methods being explored, immunology is one of the most promising today. Scientists think that cancer is probably more universal than people think and that, like TB, it occurs in many people but is held dormant by immunological responses within the body. The immunologist hopes to "harness" this force on a wide scale.

One reason for its importance is that drugs adapted to the treatment of cancer can effectively destroy cancer cells but unfortunately will usually also kill healthy cells. Thus, if the natural resistance of the body can be "triggered" there is hope for a general control of the disease.

The annual campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society makes this kind of research possible.

More than 50 per cent of the funds raised in the campaign, or more than $2,500,000 in 1966, are allocated by the Society's affiliate, the National Cancer Institute, to research grants and fellowships to explore such projects as immunology; at present a total of eight grantees are working on various phases of this science.

The combination of all this research is our greatest hope that the fear of cancer may some day before long vanish from Canada.

March Is Red Cross Month

Today's sophisticated methods of communication have made the world a smaller place in which to live. People in distant countries are as close as our telephones, radios and television sets. We must now think of them as neighbors in the world community, in much the same way as we think of our next door neighbors as part of our immediate community.

It has been our tradition to help our neighbors whenever they meet with misfortune. It has been the tradition of the Canadian Red Cross to do the same on our behalf for our overseas neighbors. But today, because of modern communication, we have a greater responsibility for the cultural and economic welfare of people in underdeveloped countries.

To meet this responsibility, the form of Red Cross international relief has changed. The "handout" has been replaced by the "helping hand". Trained personnel are being sent abroad to bring knowledge to the people in the developing countries.

Material assistance has not been abandoned altogether, but it is looked upon more as an interim measure until the source of the difficulties has been corrected.

Last year, the Canadian Red Cross spent over $900,000 on international relief.

We think this is a sound investment in international relations for it will result in better human relations the world over.

March is Red Cross Month in Canada.

When you are asked to give your dollars to the Red Cross, please be generous.

A. G. T. Institutes New Scholarships

Alberta Government Telephones has instituted two new scholarships for post-graduate studies at the Universities of Alberta and Calgary to commemorate Canada's Centennial year.

The awards, to be known as the Alberta Government Telephones Centennial Scholarships, are open to graduates in Engineering, Physics, Mathematics or allied fields wishing to do post-graduate studies involving telecommunications leading to a Doctorate in the Sciences.

The scholarships, worth $5,000.00 a year for two years are not necessarily confined to students who are residents of the province but preference will be given to Albertans.

Selection of recipients and administration of the scholarships, will be the responsibility of the universities and successful candidates will receive $5,000.00 covering a 12-month period for two years.

Since the University of Calgary will not have students eligible for this Scholarship until 1966, an award will be made to the University of Alberta only until that time.

HERE'S ONE TOWN THAT'S REALLY FAR-SIGHTED

The booming city of Prince George, near the geographical centre of British Columbia has drawn up plans to show what the community will look like 50 years from now, according to Heavy Construction News. Municipal Minister Dan Campbell says a plan drawn up by architect Des Parker is realistic and should be adopted by other cities. The model shows monorail transportation, high-rise office and apartment buildings, a 2600-seat convention centre and a covered shopping mall. The city now has a population of 25,000 and will have 40,000 by 1976, when the first phase of reconstruction is expected to be completed.

General Motors of Canada offers a wide range of trucks with load-carrying capacities from 5,000 lbs. to 52,000 lbs. and 30 types of transmissions and 18 types of engines.

The February issue of Consumer Reports came into my office some time ago, but I've only now had a chance to glance at it. I noticed an article on steam-spray irons, and thought I'd pass some of the information along to you.

The last time they rated irons, the newest feature was the added spray; now, teflon soleplates are new.

The tests found all models satisfactory as dry irons, but showing a wide performance range when used with steam. It is worth noting good steam ironing depends much more on the amount of steam produced by the iron and on how uniformly it is delivered; than on the number of soleplate vents that advertisers are so fond of touting. While too little steam was a problem with some models, none produced too much. Even when heavy steamers were used on fabric requiring relatively little moisture, there was no problem with excessive steam. Although heavy steamers will probably require somewhat more frequent refilling, it's worth this minor inconvenience to get faster, more efficient and easier ironing.

Good spray action is also a feature to look for, and this means, a finely atomized mist that covers the area in front of the iron, without the need to lift or tilt the iron or pump the spray mechanism excessively. The finer the mist the less chance of water spotting.

The report stated that Teflon coating doesn't make a hot iron slide more easily over a fabric. However, Teflon offers some distinct advantages that CU considers well worth the extra dollar or two on the price. First, lint and starch do not accumulate on the soleplate as they do on aluminum. (A similar advantage was found with the stainless steel soleplates of the Sears 6223 and Hoover 4400) Second, scratches on the Teflon coating were less likely to result in burns that could snag fabrics during ironing. Finally, if a synthetic fabric (acetate for instance) should melt from too hot an iron, it would not stick to a Teflon coating as it would to all other soleplates, including those of stainless steel.

Finally, these few tips on care of your steam iron to avoid scratching the soleplate, always store an iron on its heel rest. Some manufacturers suggest that minor scratches on uncoated aluminum soleplates may be smoothed with fine sandpaper or steel wool; starch and other accumulations may be removed with a non-abrasive household cleanser. The soleplate is less likely to pick up residue if it is waxed. You can wax it quickly by passing the iron at a low temperature setting over a sheet of wax paper. Then polish the soleplate with a soft cloth.

Hard or chemically softened water should never be used in a steam iron. It leaves a residue that can easily clog the small orifices of the steam and spray mechanism. Most manufacturers recommend distilled or demineralized water, and CU concurs. You can demineralize tap water by running it through a demineralizing cartridge. Such cartridges are available at supermarkets and at hardware stores. Be sure to replace the cartridge when a change in its color signals that it is exhausted.

The article discusses several different makes in regard to the above qualities, and lists all makes in order of acceptability.

A WEEKLY LOOK AT EXPO 67

(By Tracy S. Ludington)

Two years ago a quiet little island in the St. Lawrence River was a place where citizens might go when in search of a peaceful oasis. Expo was a great plan in the minds of its originators.

A year ago the island and 417 acres of reclaimed land from the mighty river was largely a sea of frozen mud, crisscrossed by a series of makeshift gravel-and-dirt jobs.

Now Expo 67 is a reality — and the mid-river site is charged with much of the zest and zeal, enterprise and excitement, glamor and go-go that will burst full-blown on the world when the magnificent extravaganza is officially opened April 28.

Only a year ago some 2,000 workers toiled on the stark, frozen concrete foundations or drove the giant diesel. By November '66 this total was over the 8,000 mark.

The schedule promises that by the end of next month 116 projects that are the responsibility of the Expo Corporation itself will be completed. This will leave only a mere 18 to go until the top-level executive can heave that mighty sigh of relief.

But even then, there'll be the final details like street furniture, and fountains, and a dozen other important things that can't be done until the last minute.

Looking over the site now there is no evidence of any major work won't be completed on time. The few pavilions with some work-uncompleted are the smaller ones—uncomplicated in design and easy to finish.

Expo Express and the minirail are finding bridges and ponds and lagoons right where they should be according to plan — as they swing around and about on trial runs.

The LaRonde amusement area is already gay with the French Village, the English Pub, —the Children's World, The Garden of the Stars.

The dolphins are learning their lessons well in their Florida training school; the kangaroos are kicking up in Australia and will be all ready for their places at the Children's Zoo.

And food — would you believe 35 chefs in as many countries, drawing up special menus and practising their culinary art in new and untold ways?

(Address correspondence to Tracy S. Ludington, Expo 67, at 7005 Kildare Road, Montreal 29.)

Family Service Bureau Executive Report

ANNUAL MEETING REPORT
Case work services were provided to 112 families in relation to marital, parent-child relationship problems, tensions, senior citizens, disabled, individual adjustments and budgeting. A great amount of vocational guidance was given. Short term services were provided to 8 families. These services included clarification of problems, information about community resources, and referral to professional persons or agencies.

Although there were similarities in the problems they presented, they were nevertheless distinct, and thereby required special understanding and individualized services.

"What are these troubled families like?" "Were they able to obtain the help they needed?" They are families from our whole area, from the British Columbia boundary to Pincher Creek, inclusive. From many walks of life — of many different national backgrounds and religions.

The majority of these families were able to use a short series of counselling sessions to make a beginning in sorting out their problems, and were encouraged to proceed on their own as much as possible. Others required help over a longer period of time, perhaps six or eight months. We were unable to help some families who came to us, either because of their insufficient desire for change, or long established patterns of behavior.

In carrying out counselling services of the agency, all available resources in the community were used — the Towns and Municipalities, Department of Public Welfare, Doctors, Lawyers, Chiropractic Health Unit, Guidance Clinic, Canada Manpower offices, Clergy, Police Department, Family Court, Schools, Service Clubs and any one, person or organization in the community that had any service to offer which would help us with our clients.

A family agency, to fulfill its entire function in the community, must also get involved in social action.

When learning of the purpose of a family agency, a person once said "I see your job is to put yourself out of business." This is true. Besides helping people with their present problems, social agencies have a responsibility to work towards the prevention of such problems. This involves working in co-operation with other groups and individuals, towards bettering the total community.

In conclusion, I ask you to be like the postage stamp — its value lies in its ability to stick to the one thing until it gets there. So, we ask you to stay with us until we manage to "put ourselves out of business".
